GAME LAWS
FOR THE SEASON
1936-37

A Summary of the Provisions of Federal, State, and Provincial Statutes

THE THIRTY-SEVENTH annual summary by the Bureau of Biological Survey of Federal and other game laws and regulations is here presented to inform hunters, farmers, and others interested in wildlife regarding the relation of restrictions on hunting to the future enjoyment of the sport and to aid Federal and State law-enforcement officials in the administration of the Migratory Bird Treaty and Lacey Acts and other laws for the conservation and restoration of game.

It constitutes in ready-reference form a convenient synopsis of the laws. Provisions relating to methods of capture, game refuges, enforcement of laws, disposition of fees and fines, and minor matters are omitted, as also are full texts of Federal, Canadian, and Mexican laws and regulations relating to birds and game. Species not listed under "open seasons" for States and Provinces are protected there at all times.

Persons desiring information regarding further restrictions set by State or Provincial law or regulation on seasons, limits, possession, and other hunting provisions should communicate with the appropriate officials, whose addresses are given on page 37 of this bulletin.

The illustration on the title page is reproduced from the drawing made by Richard E. Bishop for use in designing the Federal migratory-bird hunting stamp for this season. The birds shown are Canada geese (Branta canadensis canadensis).

INTRODUCTION

THE WATERFOWL SITUATION, 1936

THE 1936 REGULATIONS governing migratory waterfowl hunting, both in the United States and in Canada, may well be taken to reflect the gravity of the conditions that confront our waterfowl resources. In previous years, through the medium of this bulletin and other publications, the Bureau of Biological Survey has urged upon sportsmen the necessity of moderation in their daily and seasonal kills, if the sport of wildfowling is to be perpetuated. Although duck hunters must not be held entirely to blame for the serious decrease in the supply, the fact cannot be overlooked that the waterfowl resource has been used with a lavish extravagance—lavish to the point that some species have about reached a border line beyond which it will not be safe to venture. Nature has contributed to the havoc wrought by man by the visitation of unprecedented droughts and dust storms, with the consequent destruction of natural food and cover throughout the favorite haunts of wild fowl and the loss of large numbers of birds through the drying up of ponds, streams, and potholes.

So serious was the situation considered in Canada this year that it became necessary to restrict the season to 2 months in the several Provinces, to curtail materially the bag limits, and to prescribe a close season on wood ducks, eider ducks, and—in all but three Provinces—on brant.

The restrictions imposed by the Federal regulations last year were drastic. They were intended to reduce the number of birds taken by hunters, and they accomplished this purpose. Reports of field parties, corroborated by reports from other agencies, disclosed that more birds returned to the breeding grounds this year than last. Notwithstanding the gains, however, the enormous breeding and nesting areas of the north are supporting only a fraction of their capacity in ducks and geese. It is the purpose of the Bureau's waterfowl restoration program to supply this deficiency and, so far as possible with the means at hand, to remedy conditions resulting from the great droughts.

RESTORATION PROGRAM

During the year real progress has been made toward the consummation of the waterfowl restoration program. This program, worked out along sound biological lines, embodies two principles—the restoration of areas where ducks can feed, rest, and breed, and the conservation of ducks to populate the areas restored. In the little more than 2 years during which emergency funds have been available, something over 1,500,000 acres of refuge land have been acquired, and at the present time the Bureau has approximately 2,000,000 acres under process of development. In addition, by Executive orders, large areas have been set aside from the public domain that will be developed as individual units or combined with lands acquired by purchase.

The success of this program depends on the man who hunts. Fortunately, the great majority of the sportsmen of this country are actively supporting the efforts to restore game to something approaching its former abundance. They realize that no game means no hunting, that perpetuation of the sport of wildfowling depends entirely on the conservation of the breeding stocks that must produce the birds of the future. Unfortunately, there are also scattered groups of hunters who argue that restrictions are unnecessarily severe, that their individual liberties have been inconsiderately taken away, and that special regulations have been aimed at whatever section of the country they happen to be gunning in. These are the hunters upon whose support any accelerated progress in conservation depends, and there is a decided note of optimism in the fact that more and more hunters are understanding the true purpose of game laws and that they are becoming cooperators in the work of law enforcement. There is no real foundation for ill feeling about the laws. The regulations are aimed at no one. They are made to carry out an essential part of a constructive waterfowl program, the first that has ever been put into effect in North America, and they are preparing the way for a happier future for the man of the out-of-doors. If the slow but steady improvement that has been shown in the past year can be maintained, conservationists can take encouragement in the knowledge that they are definitely on the road to game restoration and headed in the right direction. The march of wildlife conservation must not be impeded.

REVIEW OF LEGISLATION FOR 1936

FEDERAL LEGISLATION

TREATY WITH MEXICO

Federal authority over migratory birds will be reinforced and extended by an act of Congress approved by President Roosevelt on June 20, 1936, to make effective in this country a treaty between the United States and the Republic of Mexico for the protection of migratory birds and game mammals. The treaty was signed February 7, 1936, and the United States Senate on April 30 advised and consented to its ratification. Ratification by Mexico is yet to follow, and the new law will take effect upon proclamation of the exchange of ratifications.

Federal authority over migratory birds has heretofore depended chiefly on the Migratory Bird Treaty with Great Britain. The new treaty with Mexico reinforces this authority by providing for a dual basis for the Federal regulations conserving ducks, geese, and other migrants. It provides also for Federal protection of several species not specified in the agreement with Great Britain. It provides further that game mammals, as well as migratory birds, may not be transported, dead or alive, over the Mexican border without a permit from the Government of each country. Other provisions include limiting migratory-bird hunting to a maximum of 4 months, under permit; closing the season on ducks in both countries from March 10 to September 1; and establishing refuge zones in which the taking of migratory birds will be prohibited.

The act of Congress to put this treaty into effect provides for the amendment of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918 to make the law applicable to the treaty with Mexico as well as to that with Great Britain. The amended act also authorizes the appropriation of Federal funds for putting into effect the treaties and acts and regulations thereunder, for cooperating with local authorities in the protection of migratory birds, and for making necessary investigations.

FEDERAL REGULATIONS<sup>1</sup>

On August 12, 1936, the President approved and proclaimed amendments to the Federal regulations under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act that are designed to reduce the ever-increasing annual kill and insure the return of adequate breeding stocks to the nesting areas. The restrictions imposed last year on the means by which migratory game birds may be taken were continued and so clarified as to eliminate all semblance of baiting. The restriction in effect last year fixing 100 feet from the shore line for the location of blinds was discontinued this year, thus restoring open-water shooting.

Canvasback and redhead ducks were added this year to the list afforded complete protection, and in the Atlantic Coast States the season was closed entirely on brant. The open seasons fixed for the United States and Alaska are given in following paragraphs. Other amendments to the regulations have to do with transportation and with the issuance of propagating and scientific permits.

OPEN SEASONS

Waterfowl, Wilson's snipe (jacksnipe), coot.—The continental United States was this year divided into three zones for the hunting of waterfowl, coot, and jacksnipe, the seasons being fixed as follows:

In Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont, and Wisconsin, October 10 to November 8.

In Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York (including Long Island), Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, and Wyoming, November 1 to November 30.

<sup>1</sup> The full text of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, the Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp Act, and other Federal laws relating to wildlife is published in Service and Regulatory Announcements B. S.-82; the full text of the regulations under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act is published in Service and Regulatory Announcements B. S.-84. Copies can be obtained from the Bureau of Biological Survey upon request.

In Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia, November 26 to December 25.

In Alaska the seasons were fixed as follows: North of the Alaska Range and the Ahklun Mountains, September 1 to September 30; south of the Alaska Range and the Ahklun Mountains west of the one hundred and forty-first meridian and east of False Pass at the tip of the Alaska Peninsula, September 16 to October 15; southeastern Alaska from the one hundred and forty-first meridian to Dixons Entrance, October 1 to October 30; and Islands of Unimak, Unalaska, Akutan, and Akun west of Unimak Pass in the Aleutian Island group, November 1 to November 30.

Rails and gallinules (except coot).—The open season for rails and gallinules (except coot) shall be from September 1 to November 30, both dates inclusive, except as follows:

Washington and Massachusetts, October 1 to November 30.

New York, including Long Island, November 1 to November 30.

Wisconsin, October 10 to November 8.

Alabama, November 20 to January 31.

Connecticut, September 15 to November 30.

Louisiana, November 1 to January 31.

District of Columbia, no open season.

Woodcock.—The open seasons for woodcock shall be as follows, both dates inclusive:

Wisconsin, October 17 to October 31.

That portion of New York lying north of the tracks of the main line of the New York Central Railroad extending from Buffalo to Albany, and north of the tracks of the main line of the Boston and Albany Railroad extending from Albany to the Massachusetts State line, and in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Michigan, and North Dakota, October 1 to October 31.

That portion of New York lying south of the line above described, including Long Island, and in Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Iowa, October 15 to November 14.

Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, October 21 to November 20.

Missouri, November 10 to December 10.

Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, November 15 to December 15.

North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana, December 1 to December 31.

Doves.—The open seasons for mourning doves shall be as follows, both dates inclusive:

Arizona, Arkansas, California, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Utah, and Virginia, September 1 to November 15.

Delaware, September 15 to November 30.

Maryland, September 1 to September 30 and November 15 to December 31.

Florida (except in Dade, Broward, and Monroe Counties), and Louisiana, November 20 to January 31.

That portion of Florida comprising Dade, Broward, and Monroe Counties, October 1 to November 15.

North Carolina, September 1 to September 30 and December 20 to January 31.

Alabama in the counties of Pickens, Tuscaloosa, Jefferson, Shelby, Talladega, Clay, Randolph, and all counties north thereof; Georgia, in the counties of Troup, Meriwether, Pike, Lamar, Monroe, Jones, Baldwin, Washington, Jefferson, Burke, and all counties north thereof; Mississippi, in the counties of Washington, Humphreys, Holmes, Attala, Winston, Noxubee, and all counties north thereof; and South Carolina, in the counties of Edgefield, Saluda, Newberry, Fairfield, Lancaster, Chesterfield, and all counties north thereof, September 1 to September 30 and December 20 to January 31.

Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, and South Carolina, in the counties other than those aforesaid, November 20 to January 31.

That portion of Texas north or northerly of a line beginning at the Rio Grande west of Del Rio, thence to Del Rio, thence east along Southern Pacific Railway to San Antonio, thence along International-Great Northern Railway to Austin, thence east along Houston and Texas Central Railway to Brazos River, thence north up Brazos River to where Beaumont branch of Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway crosses said river, thence east along Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway to intersection with Houston East & West Texas Railway at Cleveland, thence along Houston East & West Texas Railway to the Louisiana border except the counties of Bastrop, Brazos, Burleson, Fayette, Grimes, Lee, Lime-stone, Milam, Montgomery, Robertson, San Jacinto, Smith, Washington, and Wood, September 1 to October 31.

That portion of Texas south of the above-described boundaries and the coun-ties hereinabove excepted, December 1 to January 16.

Band-tailed pigeons.—The open seasons for band-tailed pigeons shall be as follows, both dates inclusive:

California, December 1 to December 15.

Arizona and Oregon, October 16 to October 30.

New Mexico, October 1 to October 15.

Washington, September 16 to September 30.

DAILY BAG AND POSSESSION LIMITS

Ducks (except wood duck, canvasback duck, redhead duck, ruddy duck, and bufflehead duck).—Ten in the aggregate of all kinds, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 10 ducks in the aggregate of all kinds.

Geese and brant (except snow geese and brant in Florida and all States north thereof bordering on the Atlantic Ocean, and Ross's goose).—Four in the aggre-gate of all kinds, and any person at any one time may possess not more than four geese and brant in the aggregate of all kinds.

Rails and gallinules (except sora and coot).—Fifteen in the aggregate of all kinds, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 15 in the aggregate of all kinds.

Sora.—Twenty-five, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 25.

Coot.—Fifteen, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 15.

Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe.—Fifteen, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 15.

Woodcock.—Four, and any person at any one time may possess not more than four.

Mourning doves.—Twenty, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 20.

Band-tailed pigeons.—Ten, and any person at any one time may possess not more than 10.

The possession limits hereinbefore prescribed shall apply as well to ducks, geese, brant, rails, including coot and gallinules, Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe, woodcock, mourning doves, and band-tailed pigeons taken in Canada or other foreign country and brought into the United States as to those taken in the United States.

STATE LEGISLATION

Regular legislative sessions were held in nine States this year, at which changes in seasons, bag limits, and other provisions of the game laws were enacted. In some other States, such changes were effected by orders or regulations of the game commissions. No changes of major importance were made in the adminis-tration of the various laws, so far as reported to the Biological Survey.

SEASONS

Many readjustments, purely local in character, were made in the seasons on both game animals and upland game birds in Minnesota, South Carolina, Tennes-see, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming, details of which may be found under the respective States.

BIG GAME

Deer.—Arkansas shortened the season, prescribing December 7-16 instead of the former split season of November 12-17 and December 20-January 1, the split season to remain in effect in two counties, however. Louisiana shortened the season, to close January 1 instead of January 15. Massachusetts changed the season, making it December 7-12 instead of December 2-7, opened the season in Barnstable County, and closed it in Dukes. Mississippi, by regrouping counties, provided two seasons as against the former four, and although the season remains closed in most of the State, 4 counties have a season from December 20-January 1 and 22 counties, a season from November 20-December 1. New York opened the season November 1-15 in one additional county. North Dakota closed the season throughout the State. Oregon extended the season 2 days, to open Sep-tember 20 instead of September 22. Pennsylvania extended the season 2 days, prescribing December 1-12 instead of December 2-11, and closed the season entirely on antlerless deer. South Carolina opened the season in one additional county. Utah adopted a uniform season of October 20-30. West Virginia shortened the season 2 days in sections that provide an open season and closed it in four counties previously open.

Bear.—Alabama extended the season 1 month, to open October 1 instead of November 1. Arkansas closed the season. California shortened the season 2 months, prescribing November 16-December 31 instead of November 16-February 28. Colorado opened the season (except on females with cubs and cubs under 1 year old) October 1-November 30. Pennsylvania extended the season 1 day, fixing it at November 23-26 instead of December 5-7. West Virginia shortened the season, prescribing November 5-December 5 instead of November 11-December 25.

Elk.—Arizona closed the season. Oregon closed the season in one additional county and changed it in all open areas from November 10-19 to November 8-18. South Dakota closed the season.

Moose.—Maine closed the season.

Mountain goat.—Montana opened the season, September 20-October 20, in two additional counties.

SMALL GAME

Rabbits and Squirrels.—Alabama established a uniform season on squirrels throughout the State of October 15-January 15 instead of the general season of October 1-December 31, with the exception that in 25 counties the season is November 1-January 31. Arizona shortened the squirrel season 1 month, to close November 30 instead of December 31. Arkansas provided a straight squirrel season of August 15-December 31, instead of the former split season of May 15-June 15 and October 1-January 1. California shortened the rabbit season 16 days, to close December 31 instead of January 15. Indiana was divided into two instead of three zones for the hunting of squirrel. In the northern zone the season was fixed at September 1-October 30; in the southern zone, August 10-October 9. Louisiana shortened the squirrel season, to open October 1 instead of September 15. Mississippi prescribed three zones for squirrel shooting, with the season in the southern zone November 1-December 31; in the central zone, October 1-December 31; and in the northern zone, September 1-December 31. By a regrouping of certain counties outside of the fixed zones the season was extended in some counties. In New York the season on varying hare was extended, prescribing October 19-January 31 instead of October 28-December 31, except in 11 counties where the season remains closed. A uniform opening date of October 19 instead of October 28 was prescribed for rabbit and squirrel. Oregon opened the season in one additional county on gray squirrel. Pennsylvania shortened the season on rabbit and squirrel, prescribing November 6-26 instead of November 1-30. South Carolina extended the squirrel season 1 day in one county.

Raccoon.—Pennsylvania prescribed a uniform season of November 6-December 31, with a separate season of November 1-December 31 in 20 counties. West Virginia shortened the season, prescribing November 5-December 5 instead of November 11-December 25 and opened it in 11 counties previously closed.

GAME BIRDS

Quail.—Arizona shortened the season 1 month, to close November 30 instead of December 31. Louisiana shortened the season, prescribing December 5-February 25 instead of November 1-15. Minnesota shortened the season, prescribing November 1-15 instead of October 28-November 19. In Oregon, 27 counties were given an open season October 15-31, 1 county a season October 1-31, and 1 county a season of October 15-31 on California or valley quail. Pennsylvania shortened the season on upland game birds prescribing November 6-26 instead of November 1-30. South Carolina extended the quail season in one county, to open November 1 instead of November 26, and in another county to close February 15 instead of February 1. West Virginia shortened the season prescribing November 5-December 5 instead of November 11-December 25 and closed it in 12 counties.

Pheasant.—Arkansas closed the season. Delaware opened the season, November 15-21. Indiana shortened the season to close November 12 instead of November 14. New Mexico closed the season. New York curtailed the season, prescribing October 16-28 instead of October 28-November 9. Oregon shortened the season in counties having an open season. In 28 counties, October 15-31 was prescribed; in 1 county, October 15-November 15; in 1 county,

October 1-31 and in another county a 4-day staggered season was allowed. Pennsylvania shortened the season to correspond with the shortened season on other upland game birds. South Dakota prescribed a split 20-day season on male birds east of the Missouri River and in two counties west of the river, from October 10-19 and from November 2-11. Vermont shortened the season 1 day.

Turkey.—Arkansas shortened the season, prescribing a straight season of April 1-30, instead of the former split season November 12-17, December 20-January 1, and April 1-30. Mississippi opened the season April 1-20. New Jersey opened the season November 10-December 15. Pennsylvania shortened the season to conform to the general upland bird season, and closed the season in five additional counties. West Virginia shortened the season in 11 counties, prescribing November 5-December 5 instead of November 11-December 25.

Grouse and Hungarian partridge.—Alabama closed the season on ruffed grouse. Arkansas and Kansas closed the season on prairie chicken. Montana closed the season on grouse of all species except ruffed grouse and blue grouse in one county, where the season was fixed at September 20-24. New Jersey opened the season on Hungarian partridge November 10-December 15. New York reduced the season on grouse, prescribing October 19-November 16 instead of October 15-November 15. Oregon opened the season on Hungarian partridge in one additional county, October 15-31, thus giving that season to four counties, and in five others fixed the season at September 15-November 15. In 18 counties the season on grouse or native pheasant was shortened 2 days, opening October 15 instead of October 13, and in 14 counties it was shortened 9 days, being fixed at September 10-October 1 instead of September 20-October 25. West Virginia shortened the season on ruffed grouse, prescribing November 5-December 5 instead of November 11-December 25.

BAG LIMITS

Alabama reduced the seasonal limit on deer from 5 to 3 and on turkey gobblers from 10 to 5. Arkansas reduced the limit on deer and turkey from two to one a season. Colorado fixed the limit on bear at one a season. Georgia reduced the limit on quail from 20 a day and 40 a week to 15 a day and 30 a week. Indiana reduced the daily bag on quail from 15 to 10. Iowa reduced the daily limit on squirrel from 10 to 6. New York reduced the daily limit on varying hares from 6 to 3. Pennsylvania reduced the daily bag on raccoons from 3 to 2; the seasonal limit on rabbits from 24 to 20; the daily limit on quail from 6 to 4, the seasonal from 24 to 20; and the seasonal limit on pheasant and grouse from 10 to 8. South Dakota changed the bag limit on pheasant to four a day east of the Missouri River and two a day west. Virginia reduced the quail limit from 15 to 12 a day. West Virginia reduced the daily limit on rabbit from 6 to 5, the seasonal from 40 to 30; and the daily limit on quail from 8 to 6, the seasonal from 48 to 36. Wisconsin fixed the limit on deer and bear at one a season.

LICENSES

Georgia reduced the fee for the State-wide hunting license for nonresidents from $25 to $12.50, and for the county license from $10 to $5. Idaho provided a $1 coupon or tag for residents hunting and killing deer, elk, and mountain goat. Iowa provided a uniform license fee of $1 for residents, instead of the $2 fee for residents over 16 years of age. In Maine the fee for the resident hunting and fishing license was reduced from $2.15 to $1.15 and for the resident hunting license from $1.15 to 65 cents. North Carolina increased the fee for the nonresident license from $10.10 to $15.75 and for the resident county license from 60 cents to $1.10.

OTHER LEGISLATION

California adopted a provision requiring licensees to report the number of each species of game killed and the county in which killed.

Connecticut adopted provisions that male persons receiving old-age assistance may procure licenses upon the payment of the recording fee of 35 cents and that a nonresident lineal descendant of a nonalien resident may procure license for the same fee as that paid by residents. Provision was also made for a combination hunting, fishing, and trapping license for residents, costing $7.35.

In Ohio a provision was adopted authorizing the use of bow and arrow for hunting all game except migratory waterfowl.

Wisconsin adopted a special season, October 25-31, for hunting deer with bow and arrow in two counties, but persons killing a deer by this method in those counties may not hunt deer during the regular season.

CANADIAN LEGISLATION

Amendments to the regulations under the Migratory Birds Convention Act provide substantial reductions in the open seasons on migratory game birds, the seasons in the main running for 2 months. The season was closed entirely on wood duck and on brant except in three Provinces. Material reductions were made also in the bag limits on the various species of migratory game birds.

BIG GAME

Alberta confined the elk season to the Pembina-Brzeau Reserve and adjacent areas.

In British Columbia, in the eastern district, the season on caribou south of the Canadian Pacific Railway was extended, prescribing October 1-31 instead of September 15-30. The season on elk in three electoral districts was extended, to close October 31 instead of October 15. In the western district the season on mountain goat and deer was shortened, being fixed at September 12-November 30 instead of September 14-December 15.

In Ontario the season on deer and bull moose south of the French and Mattawa Rivers was lengthened, opening October 15 instead of October 25.

Saskatchewan opened the season on elk and antelope November 16-November 30.

GAME BIRDS

Alberta closed the season on grouse and opened it on Hungarian partridge, October 1-10, in the region south of the North Saskatchewan River only.

In two electoral districts in Eastern British Columbia and in parts of two others the season on prairie chicken and sharp-tailed grouse was shortened to close October 15 instead of October 31. In the western district the season on blue grouse was shortened, being fixed at September 5-October 15 instead of September 7-October 31. The season on ruffed grouse was extended 2 days, opening October 17 instead of October 19, and the season on ptarmigan in Prince Rupert electoral district was shortened, being fixed at September 5-October 15 instead of September 7-October 31. The quail season on Vancouver Island was shortened, being fixed at October 17-November 15 instead of October 19-November 24.

LICENSES

In New Brunswick a special license (fee $10) was authorized for the taking of two deer and four bears by nonresidents; and the cost of the special license to take four bears from April 1 to June 30 was reduced from $25 to $5.

SUMMARY OF LAWS RELATING TO SEASONS, LICENSES, LIMITS, POSSESSION, TRANSPORTATION, AND SALE

GENERAL INFORMATION

Persons are advised to obtain from State game commissioners the full text of game laws in States where hunting is contemplated. (See list on p. 37.) They should also obtain information from the Bureau of Biological Survey or State game departments regarding the existence of Federal and State game and bird refuges in areas in which they contemplate hunting, as the location of refuges and the restrictions regarding hunting thereon are not included in this bulletin.

OPEN-SEASON DATES

The dates of open seasons for migratory game birds shown under the various States and Provinces are those when these birds may be hunted without violating either State or Provincial laws or Federal or Canadian regulations.

In stating the open season, the first and last days thereof are given. The difficulty of attaining absolute accuracy in a statement of the seasons is great, but the summaries here given have been submitted to and approved by State or Provincial game officials.

REST DAYS

Under the laws of some States certain days of the week constitute rest days, or close seasons during the period when hunting is permitted. Persons contemplating shooting trips should inform themselves of the provisions of State law in this respect.

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS BY STATES

The States may shorten the open seasons fixed by Federal regulations on migratory birds, reduce the bag limits, prohibit export, restrict the period during which migratory birds may be possessed in close season, or make other laws or regulations to give further protection to such birds, but may not lengthen the open season, increase the bag limit, permit sale, or otherwise lessen the protection afforded by Federal law.
